Divine Word Beatification bestowed Sunday

VATICAN CITY - "From this day forward, let Arnold and Joseph be called Blessed." These words form the heart of a rather simple formula near the beginning of the Mass of Beatification which Pope Paul will say on Sunday, October 19, Mission Sunday, at St. Peter's in Rome, to pronounce Father Arnold Janssen, S.V.D., Founder of the Society of the Divine Word and Father Joseph Freinademetz, S.V.D., one of the first Divine Word Missionaries to China, Blessed.

This ceremony will culminate years of investigation and testimony as to the virtue of these two men. The process of Beatification began in 1943 for Father Arnold and in 1951 for Father Joseph. Because of his voluminous writings, the process for Father Arnold took much longer.

The traditional touchstone for the process, dating back many centuries, is the requirement for at least two miracles that have come about through the intercession of the intended "Blessed."

with rape. The defendants are represented by Bay St. Louis attorney Walter James Phillips.

In other cases Monday, the court handed down a $2,000 judgement nisi against Isiah Oliver after Oliver failed to appear to answer charges of uttering forgery.

Trial was set for Thursday, Oct. 23 in the state versus Joseph Mitchell charged with burglary of a dwelling.

Judge Griffin appointed Waveland attorney Lucien Gex to represent Sharel and Donald Jenkins in two indictments charging the two with burglary of a dwelling and set trial for Monday, Oct. 20.

Moore trial transferred

Circuit Court Judge Darwin Maples acknowledged Monday that he had sustained a defense motion to transfer the murder trial of 23-year-old Christopher Moore from Jackson County to Hancock County.

Moore is charged with the murder of a Pascagoula school teacher last April 29 during the commission of rape, a charge which carries the mandatory death sentence under state law.

Judge Maples said he had arranged for Judge Ruble Griffin of Hancock County to hear motions in the case Oct. 20. Griffin said Monday that the Hancock County October term would be extended a third week so that the case could be tried Oct. 27.

According to Judge Maples, the defendant, through his attorney, filed a motion for a change of venue since it was felt he could not receive a fair trial in Jackson County.

Moore's arrest drew strong protest from Jackson County blacks who claim that the young black man is innocent. Moore pleaded innocent to the indictment.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has announced it intends to follow the trial of Moore in Hancock County very closely.

Periodic non-violent protest marches and boycotts of businesses were staged by the SCLC in the Pascagoula-Moss Point area.

The Rev. James Orange with SCLC, Atlanta, said activities will be planned in Hancock County to insure that justice prevails during the trial. Orange said

Dr. Ralph Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is scheduled to arrive in Jackson County Friday to confer with local SCLC leaders regarding any activities.

Moore had remained in Jackson County without bond since his arrest May 14.

Hearing tonight to consider impact study

Public opinion on the Army's environmental impact statement relative to its proposal to construct a munitions plant at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County will be received at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Building 1200 at the NSTL site.

An "open gate" policy will be observed for the hearing with security guards at the site's North and South gates to assist visitors with directions to the Central Control Building.

Following a discussion of the background and content of the proposal, comments will be received. Citizens and groups are encouraged to attend and present written statements. Additionally, oral presentations will be heard and recorded.

Public Affairs officer Mack Herring said several Army officials would be on the site Wednesday and Thursday in preparation for the hearing.

Major Leo Shanley, project coordinator for the proposed $330 million dollar munitions facility, will be available today, Herring said, to answer questions or meet with local people.

Herring said the facility would employ between 1,000 to 1,500 people of which a large number would be local.

Funding for the plant is presently under question after being excluded last month from the House Defense Appropriations Bill by the House Appropriations Committee.

Following the House committee action, Senator John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made it clear he did not consider the House recommendation final or binding to the Senate.

Richardson enters justice race

"When I grow up...."

Heart surgery gives new life to Waveland girl, 6

By NEVILLE R. JACOB

"When I grow up I want to be a nurse!"

Leslie Rodrigue, 6, born with a rare birth defect, decided this during one of her near death-resulting tussles with pneumonia just a few, short months ago.

Today, following open heart surgery, she has begun to travel the long road leading towards the realization of her ambition. In fact, she took the first steps from the beginning of her, to date, short life, by fighting the battle of living with courage and a determination far beyond her years and understanding.

Her spirit wanted to live, and through that spirit, and the miracle of modern surgery, she plays today in a manner that seems intended to "make up for lost time."

The second youngest child of Mrs. Marie Rodrigue of Rue de La Salle, Waveland, Leslie was a "Camille" baby, born September 9, 1969, three months ahead of time.

Weighing just two pounds at birth, Leslie, arrived with a then undetected heart defect later diagnosed as a faulty valve between the upper and lower chambers on the left side of her heart. The defect, which robbed her of energy, restricted the flow of blood between the chambers, causing the pressure to build up in the upper chamber, and forcing blood into the lungs. The subsequent lung pressure created what Mrs. Rodrigue described as, "terrible bouts of pneumonia, one after the other..." each threatening the little girl's life and forcing her into frequent and lengthy hospitalizations.

Drs. R. T. Bruni and J. A. Sheffield, of Gulfport, pediatricians, first recognized the heart trouble and referred Leslie to the cardiac team at University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson.

There the pediatric heart specialists heard a slight, but "special" murmur, one that unmistakably signaled presence of a "narrow valve." This diagnosis was subsequently confirmed through utilization of a heart catheterization technique.

Struggling again for her life, Leslie seemed to understand the necessity of all the new series of examinations and is described by her mother as having been, "an exceptionally good patient."

Leslie wanted all the things the other kids had. Her birthday, with its promise of another year of life, lay just two scant days ahead when she was wheeled into the operating theatre.

Hope for survival lay in the replacement of the faulty valve with one made from a pig's heart valve. More than 5,000 Americans, mostly adults, had undergone similar valve replacement operations since 1969.

The cardiac surgery team held high hopes for Leslie's recovery from the beginning. "The valve being employed seems to work especially well in children," the surgeon said.

The surgeon explained that because blood clots do not form around the "pig" valve, as they often do around plastic or metal valves, Leslie did not have to take a blood thinner which would increase the risk of bleeding.

Several types of artificial valves have to be replaced as a child grows. The pig's valve, because it is constructed differently, can fit a small child, yet will not be outgrown. Further the surgeon allowed that Leslie's body probably will not try to throw off the new valve because it is not live tissue.

Mrs. Rodrigue said that since returning home at the end of September, the child has been happy, lively, and is eating a lot more.

"I can hardly keep up with her," the mother said this week, adding, "she used to just sit and mope, but now she runs and plays."

Described as being a "smart" girl, Leslie soon showed that she was feeling better by pulling out the breathing tube after waking up in the Intensive Care Unit following surgery.

"She didn't complain much at all," the mother said, "she didn't cry and only asked for something to drink."

With the valve from the pig's sorta working well, Leslie turned six. She had her birthday and is home.

What more can be said? Except perhaps to say a prayer. To say a prayer to her future, a prayer for the love of a mother who fought alongside her, for the talents of those who gave her a future, and thank you to the God who brought it all together.

Leslie climbs... and rides a hobbyhorse following heart surgery

Veteran's service office/Chester Curvey

Many fail to take advantage of benefits

Thousands of wives and children of veterans and servicemen are failing to take advantage of benefits and programs provided by Congress, despite intensive efforts by VA to inform each beneficiary.

Educational benefits for wives, widows and children of veterans whose total permanent disabilities, or deaths, were service-connected is cited by VA officials as one example of the many benefits available. Also eligible for educational benefits are wives and children of servicemen missing in action (MIA) or prisoners of war (POW) for more than 90 days. VA loans are available to wives of POWs and MIAs and to unmarried widows of veterans, and servicemen whose deaths were service-connected.

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) is paid by VA to widows and children if the veteran's death was service-connected. Pension is paid if death was non-service-connected. In certain cases, parents may be eligible for DIC checks. Still another benefit, an additional monthly aid and attendance payment of $44 is paid to eligible wives, widows and parents who are patients in nursing homes, helpless or blind, or so nearly helpless or blind that regular assistance from another person is required.

Most VA benefits for dependents and survivors of veterans are based on at least 90 days of military service. For post-Korea and Vietnam Era veterans, at least 181 days in service is required for GI home loans and educational benefits entitlement.

Educational benefits will be available to the widows until 10 years from the date of the Veterans Service Connected death or ten years from the date the Veteran was determined to have a service-connected total disability, permanent in nature. The widow is entitled to 36 months of schooling or the equivalent of 36 months if enrolled in a part time school.

Children may draw educational benefits of special restorative training benefits between 18 and 25 years of age or under 18 if they have graduated from high school. A child's marriage will be no barrier to War Orphans Educational benefits. A widow's remarriage terminates entitlement unless the remarriage is terminated by death or divorce.

The widow and unmarried children of a deceased veteran may draw a widow or child's pension if their income is not beyond allowable limits. Children between 18 and 23, if attending a VA approved school, are eligible to continue to receive VA Pension benefits. Children over 18 for both Pension and Dependency and Indemnity Compensation must submit a V.A. Form 21-674, if in a secondary school, to continue receiving the educational allowance. This form should be submitted before the child reaches 18 years of age to prevent being dropped. A child is dropped from the Dependency and Indemnity compensation payments and is paid War Orphans Educational benefits when they start to college and after submitting a V.A. Form 22-5480. WOE Payments are of course much more.

To repeat, make sure the 21-674 is submitted before the child reaches 18 years of age to prevent being dropped from the payroll. To prevent being dropped from Social Security payment upon reaching 18 years of age submit SSA Form 1372 at least 30 days before they reach their 18th birthday. Children who are retarded or become totally disabled before reaching their 18th birthday will receive pension or Dependency and Indemnity Compensation payments indefinitely. Call your Veterans Service Office at 467-5404 for information on this and all other Veterans Problems.

Roof Grows in Stature As Lot Sizes Shrink

The landscape surrounding the nation's single family homes is beginning to shrink because of rising land costs. As home sites become smaller, architects and builders face the added challenge of better land usage.

The American dream of home ownership remains as strong as ever. What's changing is the shape of the house the family will live in. Increases in the cost of land have led to the replacement of the one-story, sprawling ranch-style house by taller, narrower, clustered homes that reflect contemporary lifestyles and design techniques.

The switch to taller, narrower, clustered houses has, because of their high visibility, restored interest in roof lines and styles. Because vision is directed upward, in cluster housing, the roof becomes the single most important element in the creation of "curb appeal."

A roof of heavy-textured asphalt shingles, with their rugged, three-dimensional appearance and deep shadow lines blends well with the trend in siding to the natural, rustic look.

Available in popular earthen shades of browns and olives, these shingles help relate a home to its environment, yet set it apart from its neighbors.

This new generation of asphalt shingles, designed to last up to 20 years with little maintenance, can be adapted to virtually any roof design and is especially attractive on roofs with high visibility from the street, such as steep-pitched gable or mansard roofs.

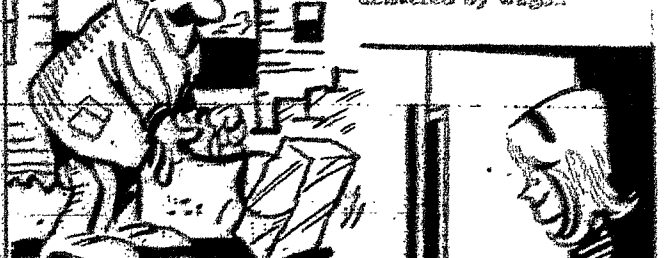

More information on roofing is available in a newly revised, 20-page brochure, "A Homeowner's Guide to the Selection of Quality Roofing." It can be obtained for 10 cents from SRA, Box 1201, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

FANCY FREE!

In the first century A.D., the Roman Emperor Nero hit upon a hot way to keep cool. He frequently sent sprinters off to the tops of the local mountains to bring back batches of icy cold snow!

Even into the early 20th century, ice was cut from frozen lakes, ponds and rivers and stored in ice houses before being delivered by wagon.

Today, getting ice is no visit. You don't even have to open the freezer door anymore and let the cold escape. A new frost-free refrigerator freezer from Hotpoint has an automatic filling ice-bin in the door!

State garden clubs offer compotes in commemoration

Official commemorative

Mrs. Vernon L. Conner, President of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., registers a smile of approval as she presents the "Disciples of Democracy" Compote that is being issued as an Official Commemorative for the Bicentennial of the United States of America. This "Disciples of Democracy" Commemorative Compote is available exclusively through Garden Clubs across America.

Mrs. Vernon L. Conner, President of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., has unveiled the hand-made crystal compotes that her organization has commissioned to Officially Commemorate the 200th Anniversary of the United States of America.

The "Disciples of Democracy" Compote, which would have been known in Colonial days as a candy box, is approximately eight inches high and was designed and created by special commission to the Fenton Art Glass Company of Williamstown, W. Va. The lid of each piece is crowned with an American Eagle and the sides feature detailed cameos of four of our nation's greatest disciples of democracy: George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin.

Mrs. Conner explained that her membership decided to offer these Bicentennial Commemorative pieces nationally as an Official Garden Club Project. The crystal compotes will be made available exclusively through local Garden Club members, beginning in early October. The proceeds from this project will be used to help finance the many community service programs undertaken each year by Garden Clubs across the nation.

According to Mrs. Conner, every State Federation Garden Club President will receive one of these hand-made crystal compotes to present to their state's Governor to place on permanent display in the Governor's Mansion. In addition, one of the compotes will also be presented for display in each state's historical museum.

Mrs. Conner further stated that her organization chose this particular project because the hand-made process by which the compotes are produced is an authentic Early American craft that results in the creation of a beautiful and meaningful object d'art. When placed on display, this Bicentennial Commemorative piece will serve as a constant reminder of our American heritage of freedom.

Like all fine glassware, the "Disciples of Democracy" compote has distinctive identifying markings. The Official Garden Club Seal is inscribed beneath the base, along with a special Bicentennial marking that dates the piece and contributes to its appeal as a collector's item.

When the original compote mould is destroyed on December 31, 1976, the "Disciples of Democracy" Bicentennial Compote will become a limited edition piece that is sure to substantially increase in value.

Reward offered by Crime Commission

The Mississippi Coast Crime Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the identity, arrest and conviction of the rapist-slayer of a 16-year-old Pascagoula girl.

The victim, Janie Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Westmoreland of Pascagoula, was found slain in west Mobile (Ala.) County Sept. 26.

Authorities said the girl had been slashed about 30 times before her body was dumped in the woods. The victim, who had been reported missing Sept. 24 when she failed to return home from Colmer Junior High School, had been raped, authorities said.

Earl Riley, executive director of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission, said, "Someone, somewhere has information which will assist the local and federal law enforcement agencies collaborating in this investigation."

Riley urged anyone having information concerning this "despicable and vicious crime and the person committing these crimes to contact their local law enforcement agency, the Jackson County Sheriff's department, the Pascagoula Police Department or the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Gulfport."

Bay scouting is meet topic

Scouting, its needs and objectives, will be topics of a special public meeting scheduled for 7 p.m., October 20, in the parish hall of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Open to all interested persons, special emphasis is to be given possible methods of extending the scope of scouting in Bay St. Louis to involve a greater number of boys and adults alike.

WHO IS DAVE TURNER?

Well, he is a neighbor of mine, and I thought that I would tell you a little about him, since he is a candidate for Beat 4 Supervisor. He is a family man; married to Martha Helen, and they have six children. He is a college graduate and makes his living doing tax work for businesses. He is a Mason. But, most important of all, he is a man who is interested in Hancock County, as his actions have demonstrated! That's Dave Turner.

Now, WHO IS SAM PERNICIARO?

Many of you have grown up with Sam Perniciaro, and you already know who he is. I say that he will not change after he gets in office! Who is Sam really interested in; Hancock County or himself?

I say a man's actions speak so loudly that we can't hear anything else he says. So let's judge Sam Perniciaro and Dave Turner on their actions! What has Perniciaro ever done for Hancock County? Well, I don't know of much. Sam helps Sam! (Those of you who know Sam already know this, of course). What has Dave Turner done? Well, for starters, he helped get the first Therapy Center for Crippled Children in Southern Mississippi built in Beat 4 of Hancock County. He works at the Therapy Center on a volunteer basis, and has drawn no salary for his services. To give a year of his life to helping improve Hancock County speaks pretty loudly for the kind of man Dave Turner is.

If you live in Beat 4 in Hancock County, please consider these things. Also, consider who is really qualified by training and experience to handle our tax dollars wisely. DAVE TURNER IS! And one more thing. Please think about who you would like to have representing you. Our supervisors stand for us, for Hancock County. Would you rather have Sam Perniciaro or Dave Turner talking to industry, getting them to locate in our County? (Sam has not said that he would work to do this, but Dave has said that he would work to bring more good jobs to Hancock County. And Dave can do it!). We'll have to live with our decision for four long years. Let's make a good decision. Please vote for Dave Turner as your Beat 4 Supervisor. If you do, we'll all win!

Sincerely,

Linda Lacoste

Speaking out

On Tuesday we asked the president of one of our area's more prominent civic service organizations to consider assisting in the assumption of a cause that has frequently been in dispute and suffered from bouts of neglect.

The answer was swift in coming.

First, we were told, the group thought the problem was in hand. Secondly, now possessing the information that such may not be the case, a promise was given the matter would appear on the next agenda.

This is an action organization and the response is typical of the group's quick reaction.

It is also a good example for other civic minded groups, organizations, and industries to follow.

It is easy to point. We know. The finger points at us too. It is time we shook out more soil, cleared the old dreams, and made ready for action. Several project causes, old and new, are being logged, but to assist in the establishment of priorities we ask your help.

Our primary need is for a brisk resumption of "Letters to the Editor." Naturally, we would like these to be signed and cleared for print, but, as in the "olden days," we are prepared to accept "clues." Also, our telephone is not bugged so the freedom of speech in such communication is maintained.

Suggestions for editorials are also welcome, provided they are in good taste - or at least in acceptable English. Remember, we are not proposing the establishment of a vindictive "Babel Tower" but simply the resumption of editorial stands.

It is realized our "flexing" will not sit well with those among us who may prefer that sleeping dogs lie, but after all, it is part of our responsibility to this community. (J-)

Society offers hope

It is high time the City of Bay St. Louis either accepts the hand being offered by the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., in the maintenance and operation of its dog pound or come up with some lasting and satisfactory alternative.

Mayor Warren Carver, yesterday declined responsibility for the pound in spite of the governing city ordinance which puts the matter in the hands of the police chief or, "...other authorized person." Lacking a dog catcher, the mayor apparently is prepared to abandon the pound on the basis that its operation is not police business.

Maybe, at least for him, it is the best solution. The only problem yesterday was that the pound held three, or more, very hungry dogs he claimed weren't there.

To be fair, Mayor Carver did say he would telephone the Humane Society and have them assume at least temporary charge of the present pound residents. He did, and they are being fed.

His action does not explain his refusal to endorse the Humane Society's efforts to operate the pound, unless perhaps personalities are involved.

We are in possession of the documented positive attitude held by our other two city commissioners towards a humane solution to a problem possibly being made more complex by singular stubbornness.

Mayor Carver says the dog pound is not police business.

We agree. We do not agree the responsibility for a solution is not his. The ordinance clearly spells out the chain of command. The buck stops there.

We do not think, nor suggest, that by nature the mayor is inhumane.

It is difficult to understand why, in view of an organization's willingness to at least make an attempt to right a host of evils, the city continues to turn a deaf ear to the sufferings of life that it, by its very impoundment thereof, has agreed to maintain in a humane manner. (J-)

More fiscal foolishness

Over the past 15 years, the economy of the United States has expanded in a manner unprecedented in the history of the world. Unfortunately, that growth has not kept pace with the expansion of federal spending.

Government spending has climbed from 25 percent of our gross national product (GNP) 20 years ago, to where it accounts for 33 percent of the GNP today.

President Ford has called for a tax cut—which everyone likes—and a corresponding cut in federal expenditures, to which many people object. Ford's proposal makes good economic sense, the Mississippi Economic Council thinks.

Any breadwinner of any home can vouch that if his income is cut, his expenditures must also be cut. Unfortunately, many people in Washington seem to have forgotten their basic economics. If tax revenues are going to drop, federal spending must be curtailed by at least the same amount.

Some of the opponents of this plan claim that federal spending cannot be cut, but taxes can. The MEC—long a proponent of a balanced budget and fiscal integrity—says the government can't give away money which was spent 10 years ago.

It hasn't been long since any opponent to a plan such as the President's would have been called foolish. In those days, deficit spending was no more permissible for government than it was for private individuals.

Some of the "experts" should get back to the basics of economics and get our economy back on firm footing. President Ford claims his plan, if implemented, would bring the U.S. a balanced budget within three years. And that is very basic.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

TAX REALITIES

The President has proposed a $20 billion tax cut, which was linked to a similar reduction in federal spending. He couldn't be serious, his critics contend. And if he is serious, then surely he must have fallen completely off his rocker.

"The tax cut sounds fine," those critics bellow. "In fact, we were planning something like that ourselves right here in the Congress."

"But what is this about holding the federal budget down to a paltry $385 billion?" they continue. "Why, that's preposterous. What does he want us to do? Cut back some of our social programs?"

Exactly. And that's one of the major reasons the President's suggestions appeal to me.

Briefly, the President proposed a permanent $28 billion reduction in individual and corporate taxes—but only if Congress would agree to put a tight lid on next year's federal budget. Don't spend a penny more than $385 billion, he told the lawmakers on Capitol Hill.

He also recommended reducing the maximum corporate tax rate from 48 percent to 46 percent. This, he explained, was designed to encourage increased employment.

His proposal, predictably, caused a furor on Capitol Hill. There was praise from the middle and the right, criticism from the left.

As the criticism mounted, the White House responded by saying, "It's ridiculous for 435 men and women in the House of Representatives to stand there and whine and whinger and say they can't do this."

I wholeheartedly agree. Congress hasn't had much trouble finding a way to jack our federal budget completely out of sight. Surely, they could find a way to cut back some of their wild spending.

If you think Congress hasn't been spending wads of your money, consider these sobering facts: It wasn't until 1962 that the federal budget ran over $100 billion, but it took only eight more years for it to reach $200 billion.

And if we don't do something soon to slow things down, we will crack the $400 billion mark by next year. That means we will have doubled the budget again in five short years.

Remember, too, the sheer fact that federal spending next year could reach $420 billion without a single new federal program! Hence, the President's demand that we cut our budget by $28 billion and hold federal spending below $400 billion.

"That means a cut of $28 billion below what we will spend if we just stand still and let the train run over us," the President said in his speech.

For those financial wizards who are convinced that the President's program will mean further economic chaos, consider what The Wall Street Journal had to say about his suggestions:

"If the Ford program were adopted intact, we haven't the slightest doubt that it would expand the economy at a healthy pace, and as long as Arthur Burns keeps a grip on monetary policy, interest rates would come down as well. President Ford is in fact explicitly telling the nation that it can have more government spending or it can have lower taxes, but that it cannot have both."

I think it is a fraud on the American people for Congress to continue telling Americans that they can have "free" this or "free" that and still manage to pay less taxes. Somebody has to pay the bill.

And that "somebody" just happens to be you and me.

I like the President's tax cut proposal, but I like even more his spending cut proposal. I plan to work for enactment of both.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL

FROM U.S. SENATOR
JAMES EASTLAND

Last week the foreign oil cartel, called OPEC, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, met to decide how much they would raise the price of the oil they sell us. After debating increases of 20 percent or more they settled on a 10 percent increase until next summer, when they will meet again. There are several comments that should be made.

First, it is outrageous that the United States over a period of many, many years has been so shortsighted as to permit the Nation to be cornered in this position. In the cold light of looking back on events, we got into the habit of cheap energy as a way of life, and after we were totally committed they clamped down on us.

Second, what this cartel is doing, on an international, worldwide scale, is price-fixing, pure and simple. In the United States it is against the law for a group of corporations producing a particular product to get together and agree on a uniform price. But there is no law of nations to prohibit such international piracy.

Third, in this situation the potential exists for a total oil cutoff by the cartel, and this is absolutely unacceptable to the view. That fact should be as clear to the oil cartel as it is to us.

As to the amount of the increases in the price that take place, we never know how much they will be, but whatever they are will be too much, considering the present costs of fuels. The increases will be just exactly what they think we can stand. This involves their evaluation of our economy and of our ability to get together on national measures aimed at conservation and energy independence.

How much we buy from them depends upon how healthy our economy is. During the recession we haven't bought as much, and they know that too large a price increase would put us back into recession. It is indeed outrageous that they are able to feel that they can play tunes on our economy in this way.

They also know that too large an increase in price would solidify us into national determination to get free of their influence on our economy by all-out efforts to cut down imports of oil and increase our own energy production. They would like to keep us firmly in the hook, for years if possible.

I say that we simply cannot accept this intolerable situation any longer, where our economy and our national policies are tampered with by the votes cast by a group of small nations, sitting around a table at some remote spot in the world, with those casting the votes trying to measure very carefully just how weak our national willpower will be. It is time to get our backs up, and put them together to push forward into what we know we have to do to get independent of them by developing our own energy means. This will involve increased costs of fuel, to provide the incentive to our own oil producers to explore for additional oil reserves and for industry to develop alternative sources of energy. However, if we don't increase fuel prices gradually ourselves, the Arab oil cartel will, year by year. It will involve self sacrifice, and resolution, and when they see that we mean it, they will know that it is just a question of time until the United States will no longer be a market for their product. Then we will begin to see them breaking ranks in their tidy price-fixing clique, and competing for sales.

That is why I am going to continue to press hard for the short-term development of our vast coal and nuclear energy resources; and long-term research projects in other energy fields. That is why my votes will be for energy independence.

Governors query Ford on energy program

Governor Bill Walker met last week in Knoxville with President Ford and various leaders from the states served by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Walker, states' Co-Chairman of the Commission presided over the meeting and introduced the President to the governors of North Carolina, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Georgia, and Tennessee.

Walker said, "We appreciated this opportunity to discuss policies with the President, especially the high cost of utility bills which concern all Mississippians."

The Governor also said that Ford had given his assurances that he would send an energy program to Congress before the end of this week which includes "several of the ideas we've been stressing for over three years, including a crash program to solve the energy crisis."

Walker also said that the President's proposed tax reduction and limit on federal spending is a "step in the right direction, although it does not go far enough."

MIDDLE EAST FOLLOW-UP

Governor Walker and a group of Mississippi businessmen departed Tuesday for a three week trade mission in the Middle East.

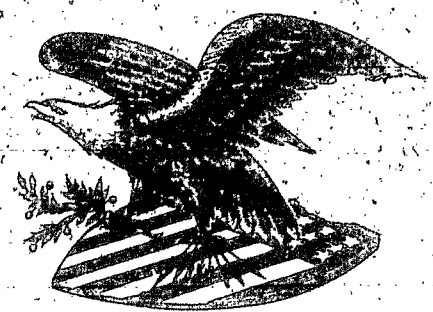

The Governor, who was accompanied by Paul Fugate, Director of the Mississippi Marketing Council, said that this mission is a "follow-up to our highly successful effort last spring."

The Governor said that the emphasis during this mission will be placed on Mississippi wood and food products.

Walker said, "This region of the world offers an outstanding market for products which are depressed on the domestic market. This trip is aimed at helping the small land owner and farmer in Mississippi get more for the products of their land."

The Governor said he and other members of the mission will meet with top government leaders and businessmen in Kuwait, Iran, Iraq, and Saudi Arabia.

Bicentennial News

By JOE PILET

Hancock County-Bay St. Louis and Waveland became officially a National Bicentennial Community last Thursday. A great deal of credit for this achievement goes to the splendid spirit of cooperation shown by public officials and civic minded leaders coupled with excellent publicity.

Publicity is that strong bond which united the people and their government. Perry Snyder, our State Bicentennial Director, was gratified with the extent of involvement shown as well as the quality of our program.

Your Hancock County-Bay-Waveland Bicentennial Commission extends through the columns of this paper appreciation for your contribution in making the flag raising ceremony the success that it was. In the "Spirit of '76" let us strive to continue to work together toward the common goal of improving the quality of life for all people in Hancock County.

Our courthouse is a beautiful architectural gem. Let's do our part toward keeping the grounds neat. Walk on the side walks. Cutting across the lawn wears an unsightly path. Remember not to litter. Gum and candy wrappers, etc. are most unattractive and label us as a careless people. Let's get involved in a landscape project for the grounds. We could make it beautiful. And the Hancock County Courthouse belongs to each of us. It is OURS and OUR Privilege to make it a proud landmark.

Get Involved in This Contest:

Generous prizes are to be awarded in a contest and YOU are eligible to enter. Prizes range from $10,000 first prize, $5,000 second prize, $3,000 third prize and 22 prizes of $1,000. Here are the details:

Americans of all ages are eligible to enter an essay contest sponsored by Wells Fargo-Bank-together-with-the Smithsonian Institution. Title of the awards program is "Toward Our Third Century" and cash awards will total $100,000.

Entries may be submitted in one of three categories by either individuals or groups: Written essays by young people under 18 years of age; written essays by people 18 years old or over; and films or tape recordings. Essays should be no more than 3,500 words in length. Not more than three photographs or illustrations may be included with the text. Tapes or films are restricted to 8 mm or 16 mm-only and should not exceed 15 minutes. These are categories to choose from: Individual Freedoms in Our Society; American Arts and Culture; Science, Technology, Energy and the Environment; Family Life, Work and Leisure; and The United States and the World.

Entries must be postmarked no later than Jan. 31, 1979 and mailed to: "Toward Our Third Century" P.O. Box 44076, San Francisco, California 94144. Winners will be announced on July 4, 1979.

PARK RATES REDUCED

Dr. Jim Meredith, Director of the Mississippi State Park Commission, has announced that rates for use of State Park cabins will be reduced during the fall and winter months in an effort to promote greater use by the public.

Meredith said the off-season plan will last from October 15-March 15.

"Off-season rates for cabins were offered by the Park Commission for the first time in 1974," Dr. Meredith said, "and the marketing approach was highly successful. As a result of the reduced rates, utilization of State Park's cabins increased significantly during the fall and winter months last year."

Meredith said that the Park Commission presently has available 170 cabin units for family use. The cabins are fully furnished, with the exception of bath linens, and offer complete year-round comfort of air conditioning and heat to the vacationing family.

Early settlers were first 'endangered species'

In America's Bicentennial year, its wildlife needs man's help. But in the beginning, the opposite was true. English colonists in "a hideous and desolate wilderness full of wild beasts and wild men" needed this continent's abundant wildlife in order to survive.

This is the conclusion of a distinguished nature writer, Hal Borland, in a report on "Wildlife in the Promised Land" in the current (October-November) issue of NATIONAL WILDLIFE.

The early settlements at Jamestown and Massachusetts Bay suffered many deaths from starvation despite the fact they were in a land of plenty, Borland writes, but the "raw wilderness" became their teacher and eventually forged a "new people."

The wilderness was a virtual cornucopia of wildlife, with bears, bison, and panthers an everyday fact of life, Borland says in his article, an excerpt from the National Wildlife Federation's Bicentennial book, THE HISTORY OF WILDLIFE IN AMERICA, to be published November 4.

And what specimens of wildlife the immigrants encountered! They harvested 110-pound catfish in Ohio, 25-pound lobsters off Cape Cod, and 40-pound wild turkeys in New Jersey.

"There were six-foot sturgeon in the James River," Borland writes. "The marshes were alive with ducks and geese, all manner of waterfowl. There were deer and wild turkeys and grouse in the woods. Yet the colony of hungry people set down in the midst of this natural plenty (at Jamestown in 1607) were afraid or unable to take and use it."

After more than two-thirds of the original Jamestown settlers starved, Captain John Smith and other leaders realized that the colony could not depend upon barter with the Indians for a long-term existence.

"The Virginia colonists' bitter experience posed questions which each succeeding wave of settlers would have to answer in its own way," notes Borland in the NATIONAL WILDLIFE article. "Questions about the skills, the human qualities, and the supplies needed to conquer the wilderness by turning its cycles of abundance and scarcity into food, shelter, warmth and clothing. The raw wilderness would be their teacher and, on its own terms, would forge a new people."

In the north, Massachusetts pilgrims found "penguins" (great auks) at Martha's Vineyard and an incredible wealth of marine life, including whales and five-foot codfish, off Cape Cod.

Borland also recounts similar experiences of the first Dutch and French immigrants and explorers. Henry Hudson, an English navigator working for Holland, found Manhattan Island to be "a very good woodland of sweet water, and deer." Father Jacques Marquette, who explored the Mississippi River with Louis Jolliet, wrote about "monstrous fish" in the great river, including one that "struck so violently against our canoes that I took it for a large tree about to knock us to pieces."

According to the National Wildlife Federation bimonthly, the American newcomers' experiences gave rise to the first native naturalist-artists who began to record the natural history of the new world. These were men like John Bartram, our first botanist; his son William, who traveled 5,000 miles on foot and horseback to write BARTRAM'S TRAVELS; and Mark Catesby, who roamed from Virginia to the Bahamas in the early 1700's and wrote the two-volume NATURAL HISTORY.

The first wave of colonists also set the stage for pathfinders who became hunters, trappers and frontiersmen. Daniel Boone led 28 axmen in 1775 from Virginia through Cumberland Gap into Kentucky, blazing a trail that became the Wilderness Road. These pioneers and those that followed found a hunter's and trapper's paradise in a land teeming with deer and beaver.

The most dangerous animals the frontiersmen faced were the black bear and the grizzly bear. (Black bears still roam Appalachian ridges, but the grizzly now lives only in the western mountains and Alaska.)

Deerskins soon became a high demand item, with first-quality buckskins selling for a dollar, thus originating the slang expression of calling a dollar a "buck," reports NATIONAL WILDLIFE.

Because of the popularity of buckskin in Europe and the United States, deer became scarce in New England and the Southeast. This decline led to passage of a law establishing a closed season on deer in all states except

Vocational jobs increasing over diminishing white collar market

Even more than sports and Saturday-night dates, the job market has taken over as the chief topic of conversation among youth today—especially since unemployment for 16 to 19-year-olds has topped 19 percent, more than double the national rate.

One of the problems is that high schoolers simply don't plan for careers, according to officials at the U.S. Department of Labor, who cite the lack of knowledge about various career opportunities and inadequate education as major factors.

Neal Rosenthal of the Labor Department's Division of Manpower and Occupational Outlook suggests that youths get as much information as possible about careers they would enjoy, including job outlook, duties involved, and educational requirements.

Where a high school diploma was once an automatic passport into the work world, today about 80 percent of jobs require specialized vocational education. The unskilled will have the worst time job hunting since many occupations are becoming increasingly complicated and technical. The discouraging fact is that one out of every three high school graduates leaves school without definite career plans, and as a result is threatened to be left behind in the race for over 60 million job openings expected in the next decade.

While a lack of training is a major stumbling block, there certainly isn't a lack of information. The Department of Labor recently published a thick "Occupational Outlook Handbook," an economic crystal ball of sorts since it predicts future opportunities in over 800 occupations. The picture for teachers and boatswains, for example, is cloudy, while rapid growth is forecast for white collar positions and in the service producing industries such as computers, health care, the trades, repair and maintenance, banking and others.

Considerable growth is expected in the area of computers, the world's third largest industry. Computers are produced, used, outmoded and replaced with technical age speed. The need for qualified men and women to operate, maintain and repair them is staggering. There were 150,000 computer operators in 1972, and 175,000 programmers. Both occupations will undergo rapid growth through the mid-1980's requiring an additional 200,000 workers.

And, as banks, insurance companies, credit card companies and state and local governments increase their use, not only will the need for people to run them increase, but also for those capable of keeping them in good repair. The need for computer maintenance men will increase from 175,000 to 250,000 by 1985, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

In fact, the Handbook predicts that repairmen of just about anything from toasters to airplanes is one of the fastest growing occupations there is. Demand is expected to increase rapidly due to many factors including a growing population and a higher standard of living, which will allow more Americans to buy more labor-saving devices, which inevitably have to be fixed. A well-paid field; salary ranges between $4-$7 per hour—and every community needs its share of repairmen. While the trade may be learned on the job in about three years, vocational school courses will teach a trainee more quickly, usually in 4 to 9 months.

But the home is not the only place where gadgets are liable to break down. The Labor Department predicts office machines are also going to need increasing attention as businesses and state and local governments buy and use more equipment to handle a growing volume of paper work which has to be typed, tabulated, copied, and perhaps even shredded. At least one year of training is required in this repair field due to the complicated and ever-changing technology involved.

High schoolers and others about to plan careers would do well to consider the rapidly growing medical field.

"News About Your Mansion"

by Carroll Waller

So many things are happening now at your Mansion that it seems an almost impossible task to keep you informed about it all.

During the past week a wide variety of groups have visited the Mansion. Included were over 300 members of the Mississippi Independent Beauticians Association; the Sadies Women's Club; the National Congress of Freedom with visitors from all over the country; students from the Edwards school and from Central High; a group of architectural secretaries; about 200 persons in town for a meeting of the Mississippi Public Health Association; Extension Homemakers clubs from several areas of the state; several antique clubs; and many other groups and individuals.

The big event of the week was the black tie reception given by the Mississippi Heart Association on Monday night, which drew guests from all over the state. The ladies moved in early that morning, worked hard all day, and by nightfall had transformed the Mansion into a hothouse with arrangements of every type flower imaginable. Their use of candlelight inside and out gave a most festive air to the occasion. Guests were entertained with outdoor performances by the Ballet Guild and the "show went on" in spite of the light rain.

The series of state luncheons also continued with several distinguished groups being invited. The most illustrious group visited on Wednesday - all former residents of the Mansion or closely associated with it. The list of those who were able to attend included: Governor and Mrs. Ross Barnett, Sr., and Ross Barnett, Jr.; Governor J. P. Coleman; Governor John Bell Williams; Mrs. Fielding Wright, Sr., and her daughter Mrs. Charles Hunt; Mrs. Battle Barksdale who is descended from both Governor Tucker and Governor McWillie; Mrs. Gladys Seely who served as Mansion hostess for Governors Barnett, Johnson and Williams; W. S. Moore who was administrative aide to Governor Coleman, and Herman Glazier who is executive assistant to Bill Waller.

Sales of the Pictorial History of the Mansion are going well. Each Bankers Trust office has done a tremendous job with the autograph parties.

We enjoyed a delightful visit to Greenville on Tuesday for a most successful autograph party. Wednesday brought a double visit. At Biloxi we were greeted by the Keesler Air Force Band playing the National Anthem. There we enjoyed visiting with many old friends and making new ones. Our arrival in Pascagoula was announced by a two-motorcycle police escort and the crowd there rivaled the one in Biloxi. The local camellia growers had a real treat waiting in the form of a camellia corsage. They aren't blooming in Jackson yet.

Our Mansion docents became really official this week when the Governor met them at the Mansion to present certificates showing they had successfully completed the training course. We just can't say enough about the beautiful job these volunteers are doing at the Mansion.

Because these ladies are doing such a tremendous service by giving their time it will be a big help if groups that want to tour will call at least a week in advance giving as near an accurate number that will be in the group as possible.

Clay gravel pours from "Mr. Fixit" truck on Central Ave., Waveland, as work crews involved in the city's ongoing sewer project rip out potholes and rebuild streets. Bad breaks caused by underground leaks in pipes necessitated a complete excavation job, pipe repairs, pumping, dumping of clay gravel and topping. Grady Savell, superintendent of Wallace Construction, prime contractors, said the shells would be left to compact until crews were ready to blacktop the streets.

Remember!

You have the right to vote for anybody in November.

Please remember this. It is your Constitutional right to vote for anybody you choose. It doesn't matter who you voted for in the primary election this past summer. On November Fourth, it's your right to vote for whoever you want. And nobody can take that right away from you.

We ask you to consider voting for Gil Carmichael for governor. Why? Because Carmichael has more to offer Mississippi than the other candidates.

Carmichael just doesn't talk about better jobs and higher pay, he has good ideas to produce better jobs and higher pay for all Mississippians.

It's your decision and your vote. Nobody can take that away from you. But you can throw it away yourself if you are not careful. First, listen to the candidates. Then vote for the one who makes the most sense for Mississippi. Gil Carmichael, he's hard to beat.

NOTE: Included in the expenditures of July 1975 is an equipment note to Heli and Equipment Co., Inc. in the amount of $4185.01.

Beat One expenditures have been in line with the other four beats in Hancock County. When you consider that $4,156.01 was paid in an equipment note over my objections, Beat One expenditures were less than Beat Two and Beat Five. It is ironic that the Beat Five Supervisor, who spent more than I did, would complain about overspending.

MORE FOOD FOR THOUGHT: The attorney for the Board of Supervisors has stated that Interfund Loans are not legal. Listed below are a few of the Interfund Loans made during the last four years:

INTERFUND-LOANS MADE BY: BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
$20,000 from GEC Funds to: Engineering Fund, Book B-5, page 479
16,000 made to the Health & Sick Fund, Book B-5, page 147 (From Beat No. 4)
8,000 from Salary Clearing, made to the Engineering

Fund, Book B-5, page 72
$5,000 from Beat No. 4, to the Engineering Fund, Book B-5, page 244
1,500 from Beat No. 2, to Beat No. 5, Book B-5, page 3
25,000 from GEC to the General County Fund, Book B-3, page 2

terfund Loan, it's illegal. When some of the other supervisors ask for a loan, it's legal.

Wood is a popular building material in cluster housing because it adapts to various architectural styles, permits individualized treatment of exterior features, and suits the rustic setting of cluster developments. The American Forest Institute says good forest management will help assure sufficient timber for housing and other needs.

'Clustering' Homes Can Reduce Costs

In early communities, homes were clustered together for protection against common enemies. Today, cluster housing may prove a safeguard against the modern dangers of rising land and construction costs.

The cluster concept — an innovation in land use — has been getting increasing attention from builder developers, community planners, architects and environmentalists. Instead of spacing houses in traditional grid-street patterns, cluster developments group homes together — sometimes with common walls — to achieve high-density use of building lots. The land thus saved becomes communal greens or squares.

Cluster housing's biggest asset is its money-saving capability. Not only is the ratio of land cost to housing unit less, but grouping means costly streets, sidewalks and utility lines can be shorter. Another attribute is improved environmental planning — more open space but less land clearing, and preservation wherever possible of trees and natural terrain.

Because homes are grouped, and house types mixed, good design is essential in clusters to avoid monotony of similar units and incompatibility of dissimilar ones. Wood — which is used in about 80 percent of single-family residences and most townhouses and low-rise multi-family dwellings — has proved especially effective in meeting cluster housing requirements. The reasons are wood's adaptability to a variety of architectural styles, and its ability to "individualize" homes with different siding, trim and roof treatments. Wood has another advantage. It ties housing in naturally with the rustic settings of most cluster developments.

Using wood to build cluster homes and preserving the trees that surround them is not a dichotomy, says the American Forest Institute. Sound conservation practices call for man's working with nature to achieve the best benefits for both, notes AFI.

Maintaining natural beauty on cluster sites is one way; producing timber for homes and other vital wood needs is another. Timberland management, says AFI, is predicated on man's ability to help nature grow trees. Forest management programs grow more wood faster by improving the soil, protecting against fire, disease and insect infestation, replanting where natural regeneration is insufficient, thinning stands to give more light and growing space to remaining trees, and balancing harvesting techniques with ecological considerations.

Sound Management Conserves Forests

A lot of tough lessons about the need to conserve resources have been taught by the energy crisis. Are they applicable to the nation's forests?

The forest industry says, "Yes, And, no."

Yes, because in order to avoid shortages of any resource, supply must keep ahead of demand. No, because trees are unlike most other resources. Oil, coal and natural gas are finite materials. Once used up, they cannot be replaced. Trees, however, are renewable. They can be grown like a crop.

The difference, industry spokesmen point out, has not always been understood by the public. But, it's expected that the current crisis in other natural resources will help to make the unique forest situation clearer.

GreenAmerica, quarterly publication of the American Forest Institute, puts it this way: "Facing energy shortages and limited supplies of petroleum and gas has made it increasingly difficult to avoid the question of sound forest management."

Forest management is the scientific cultivation of trees. It involves insect and other damage control, efficient logging balanced by environmental considerations, care of the soil, and prompt reforestation with the type of trees needed to provide commercial timber. The forest products industries — producers of lumber, paper, plywood and allied products — have managed their forests with the greatest success.

Industry manages "land" produce timber at almost twice the rate of forests owned by government or private individuals. Industry has also made dramatic strides in wood utilization by developing technology that now enables use of 80 percent of the tree compared to 70 percent in the early 1900's.

Two facts about forests and the need for their management — must be faced immediately — says GreenAmerica.

Service estimates a "medium" need of about 23 billion cubic feet by the 1990's.

2. The time to prepare for the 1990 need is now. Timber production requires a long lead time, with most commercial species needing a maturing 20 to 30 years to mature.

"In a world that's running short of raw materials, timber is one resource that is endlessly renewable," GreenAmerica points out. "The country need never run out of wood if we maintain our forests and keep growing trees as fast as we use them."

Social Security Notes

Medicare deductible to reflect '12 increase Jan. 1

Beginning Jan. 1, 1976, Medicare's hospital deductible will be increased to $104, according to Charles E. Wofford, Social Security Manager for the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The present deductible of $92 will remain in effect for Medicare hospital admissions during the rest of this year.

The deductible is the part of the hospital bill for which the beneficiary is responsible for the first 60 days of hospital care in each benefit period. Medicare pays the rest of the costs of covered services for the first 60 days and for an additional 90 day subject to a daily coinsurance.

The $104 deductible is equivalent to the average cost of one day of hospital care. At the present time the average hospital stay under Medicare is about 13½ days, at a cost of $1,400.

The increase in the deductible results from continuing increases in hospital costs. Hospital costs have been increasing at rates 50 percent faster than the overall cost-of-living. These inflationary increases in health care costs are largely responsible for the present $12 increase in the inpatient hospital deductible.

The hospital deductible amount is like the deductible amounts specified in many auto insurance policies, where the car owner pays the first $50 or $100 on a repair bill, and the insurance policy covers the rest.

When the hospital deductible amount changes, the law requires comparable changes in the dollar amounts that a Medicare beneficiary pays toward a hospital stay of more than 60 days, or a skilled nursing facility stay of more than 20 days.

When a Medicare beneficiary has a hospital stay of more than 60 days, he will pay $26 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, up from the present $23 per day. If he has a posthospital stay of over 20 days in a skilled nursing facility, he will pay $13 per day toward the cost of the 21st day through the 100th day, up from the present $11.50 per day.

If a beneficiary uses his "lifetime reserve" days, the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when he needs more than 90 days of hospital care in the same benefit period, he will pay $52 for each reserve day used, instead of the present $46 per day.

THE ROSE

In art and architecture, in history, in literature—everywhere we turn, there is admiring reference to the rose.

Sappho christened the rose the Queen of flowers more than 2500 years ago. The rose is a symbol of royalty, elegance and love.

Whether you buy roses from your florist, or bring them fresh from the garden, cutting and conditioning the stem is an important part of flower arranging.

Here are a few simple steps for you to follow:

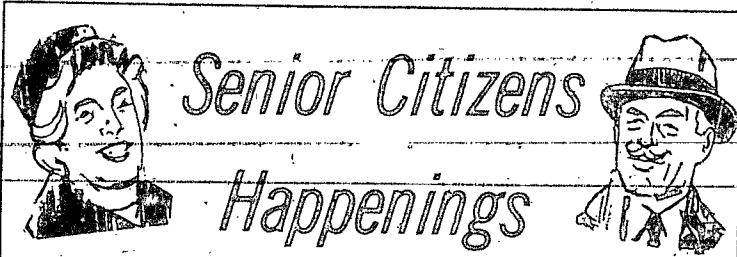

* Cut the stems at an angle. Remove all the thorns and any unwanted leaves. Wrap the stems in thick, non-absorbent paper—this will give them support when they have their first good drink of water. Split the stems up from the base. Add a capful of Prolong Cut Flower Preserver to each cup of vase water and the roses are ready to arrange. It will double the life of the roses and enhance their blooming.

* Follow this same method for tulips and any other soft-stemmed flower.

* When working with flowers with hard, woody stems, cut them at an angle. Remove the thick bark and hammer the bottom half inch to break down the fibers.

United Way in Hancock County

Scouting offers girls friendship, adventure

By MAE BEYER
Executive Secretary,
United Way
Hancock County

Scouting is available to girls from first through the twelfth grades. Their local leaders, for the most part, are dedicated mothers, who give thousands of hours of their time for the development, character building and enjoyment of these children, as they progress through the formative years from childhood to young woman. Scouting teaches a girl to be content with the simple things of life, and to be happy with herself. Scouting helps to promote the qualities of truth, loyalty, helpfulness, friendliness, courtesy, obedience, cheerfulness and kindred virtues among girls as a preparation for responsibilities in the home and for service to the community.

In the past year 235 Hancock County girls participated in the 17th Annual County Camp. They worked on increasing their skills in homemaking, the arts and on out of doors programs. During the spring and summer the girls camped at Ita Kana, their own scout camp north of Wiggins, Mississippi, which comprises 336 wooded acres.

In the formation of the troops for the 1975 school year we have included those in special education. The age range goes from the young child to one higher than those in the regular troops. There is great interest being shown in this area, as in the special olympics, to include these children, so as to enlarge the scope of participation by the "special child." Hopefully, this will open a new world to her, as she makes contacts and develops fellowship and friendship.

In February of 1975 two of the cadette troops joined the cadette round-up. In March junior troops attended junior encampment. The brownies spent a week-end at camp in April. During the summer 18 girls attended sessions during the established camp season, which climaxed with a neighborhood day camp at our own Buccaneer Park. The attendance at this session was 109 scouts, staffed by 24 of our adult girl scouts. One of the cadette scouts was awarded at National Opportunity, which she attended in Madison, Wisconsin. National Opportunities are offered by the Girl Scouts of the United States to girls registered in the cadette and senior levels.

Troops are now being organized throughout the county for the new year. Anyone desiring information should contact the leaders of the school her daughter attends.

We are all familiar with the girl scout cookie sales. The money derived from these sales was used as part of the purchase price for Camp Ita Kana, and each year it covers part of the expense to operate the camp.

Hancock County is proud to have two members on the Girl Scout Board of Directors. The first life member was Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Sr. and the first vice president was Mrs. Lucien Gex Sr.

Your contributions to the United Way make the Girl Scout activity possible in Hancock County. It is a part of the agencies which are supported by the fund.

If you are not contacted by one of our volunteers, kindly mail contributions to UNITED WAY OF HANCOCK COUNTY, P.O. BOX 142, BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS. 39520. We need your help.

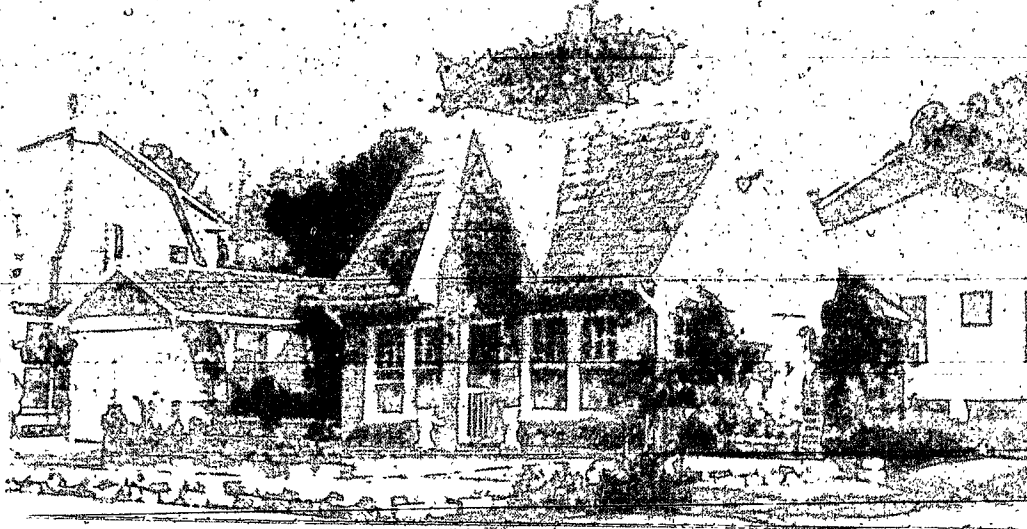

Almost 55 percent of the 7.5 million veterans of the Vietnam era have enrolled in some form of GI Bill educational training. Monthly allowances mailed by the Veterans Administration to these students require prompt notification of any change of address.

Alford attacks Finch's invisibility

Democratic nominee for Governor Cliff Finch was termed 'an old Possum' Sunday at a Democrats for Carmichael meeting.

Sam Alford of McComb, Miss., chairman of Democrats for Carmichael, made the remarks adding "the nominee of our party has no program." Alford is immediate past president of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

"It's kind of like his hand is way down in one of those magic hats, and he keeps telling us there is a rabbit in this hat ... way down in there in the dark where you can't see."

"And he keeps telling us that just after he is elected he's going to yank that old rabbit right out of the magic hat. Presto! And then we'll see it, and sure enough, he says, it's going to be one fine rabbit."

"How can we be sure the rabbit's in the hat?" "Maybe it's really an old possum."

"I know a lot of Democrats who want to see what that rabbit looks like now - before this man is elected."

Alford told the Democrats "we can't afford to elect a mystery man, an invisible man, Governor."

"We can't afford a plastic man when we have a man of steel and courage - Gil Carmichael."

"Why doesn't Cliff Finch have a program?" Alford asked.

Film show

The "Absent Minded Professor," starring Fred McMurray, will be shown at 10 a.m., Saturday, October 18, in the Public Library, Pass Christian. Public is invited.

"Why should he develop a program when the Old Guard has one all ready for him? And we pretty much know what that program is."

Chamber

cites positive

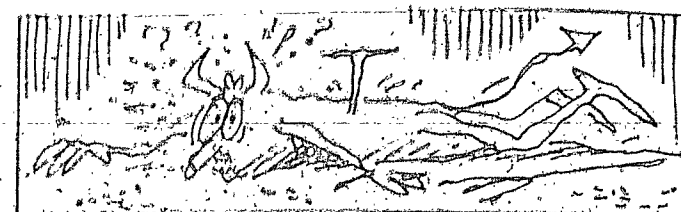

benefits

The proposed U.S. Army ammunition plant, earmarked for construction in Hancock County and frequently referred to by its code name "Steel City," has been emphatically endorsed by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

In a prepared statement this week, the chamber states it considers the beneficial impacts convincingly outweigh the "...negligible adverse impacts on the area ecology."

Basing its opinion on a first-hand study of the Army Draft Environmental Impact Statement of August, 1975, the chamber states it, "...strongly supports the construction of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant as proposed."

Its letter was addressed to the Project Manager for Munitions Production Base Modernization and Expansion, National Space Technology Laboratories, attention the Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, New Jersey.

Evening ceremony unites

Cynthia Favre, Thomas Ladner

Miss Cynthia Jean Favre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Joseph Favre, Bay St. Louis, and Thomas Joseph Ladner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Ladner, Lakeshore, were married Saturday afternoon, October 4, at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. John McKenna, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and nuptial music prior to the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie empire style gown. Venice lace trimmed the long chiffon sleeves and the empire waistline; matching lace bordered the cathedral length train. Her elbow length veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of peau de soie and lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Cheryl Brunt of Mill Valley, Calif., attended her sister as matron of honor and Miss Marlene Ladner, Lakeshore, sister of the groom was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Vicki Walters, Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride; Mrs. Alice Ray, Mrs. Laura Ladner and Mrs. Marie Green, sisters of the groom.

Misses Lisa and Lora Day, nieces of the groom, and Miss Tammy Ladner, cousin of the groom, served as junior bridesmaids.

Flower girls were Kim Green and Danee Ray, nieces of the groom.

The attendants wore green quiana empire style formal gowns and headbands fashioned of flowers. The maids carried a single yellow rose and the flower girls carried baskets of white carnations and greenery.

George Day, Waveland, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Kim, M.J. and Alan Favre, brothers of the bride, and Leonard Moran and O.V. Ladner, cousins of the groom. Rudy and Kirk Ladner, cousins of the groom, and Eric Favre, brother of the bride, were junior groomsmen. Billy Ray Osbourne, Chalmette, La., cousin of the groom, served as usher. Christopher Brunt, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception was held at Capri Lounge.

The mother of the bride received guests wearing a floor length pale blue knit dress trimmed with lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and an orchid corsage completed her attire.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, held a five-tiered wedding cake trimmed with white spun sugar roses and emerald green feathered birds. Crystal candelabra and arrangements of gladiolas completed the table decorations.

Mrs. Harold Dragon, of New Orleans, presided at the cake table and Mrs. Myrtle Schuengel and Mrs. Marie Taconi of Bay St. Louis, all aunts of the bride, were at the punch table. Mrs. Tina Stockstill, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register.

For her traveling outfit the bride chose a tan and green suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside in Lakeshore.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Nancy Petkovsek, Yardley, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Little, Orange, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fahrenback, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Sevoir, Mrs. Janet Wheat, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. George Bourgeois and son, Billy Ray Osbourne, Chalmette, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moran, Kenner, La.; Mrs. James Casabat, Miss Grace Ann Bourgeois, Metairie, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ladner, Vidor, Tex.; Mrs. Pearl Morris, of Pascagoula, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burroughs, Mr. and Mrs. John Prestley, Mrs. Pearl Adams, Pascagoula; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dragon, Mrs. Joyce Raymond and family, Mrs. Ethel Raymond, New Orleans and Mrs. Cheryl Brunt and son Christopher, Mill Valley, Calif.

Queen and court to be presented

A full day of activities is planned for Pearl River Junior College's 66th Homecoming Saturday, not the least of which will be the crowning of Queen Durenda Necaise of Hancock County and the presentation of her court in ceremonies prior to the 8 p.m. game with Holmes Junior College.

Miss Necaise, a sophomore at Pearl River, is a graduate of Hancock North Central High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie L. Necaise, Pass Christian.

Other activities planned around the homecoming include a parade at 3 p.m. through downtown Poplarville, a tea in Marion Hall and alumni banquet at 6 p.m. with Senator Martin Smith, guest speaker.

In addition to the homecoming celebration, school officials have set aside the day as J. A. Huff Day in commemoration of the former president who presided over the college when the junior college curriculum was added in 1924.

A portrait of Huff will be presented to the school and present president Marvin White at halftime by graduates of the 1924 class.

Naming of the Pearl River College Alumnus of the Year will highlight the 6 p.m. alumni banquet. Suggestions for nominees should be directed to Enoch Seal, dean of the college by Friday, Oct. 17.

Senior citizens complete SMPDD communications course

Senior Citizens at the Hancock County Day Care Center in Bay St. Louis have been very busy this week with activities ranging from singing at public functions to receiving awards for successful completion of a course in communications.
Seniors were presented certificates of course completion by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District's Aging Division for successfully completing a 12 week communications course conducted by SMPDD's Day Care Coordinator Susan Kinder.
Mrs. Kinder also presented Honorary Awards to various participants for attendance and outstanding service.
Eve McDonald, director of the Center, said, "The course was conducted to aid the Senior Citizens in communicating their problems and feelings among themselves and to stimulate discussion."
The Seniors at Hancock County Day Care Center are also very active in singing publicly at churches and nursing homes.
This Thursday, the older Americans had a special function to perform when asked to sing at the County's Bicentennial Celebration.
Also, Friday, Oct. 10, the Seniors made a special appearance at the Hancock County Fair. Their singing performance was also broadcast over the local radio station WUPP.

Gena DeMars, secretary of the Hancock County Day Care Center, said, "Their singing really comes from the heart."
As one of the Senior ladies summed it up, "It really makes you feel like living."
Those receiving awards for outstanding service included Edna Burney, Vivian Collier, Clarence Sauder and Elise McCaleb.
HONORS AND AWARD DAY
PERFECT ATTENDANCE
AWARDS were given to Edna Burney, Elizabeth Homes, Herman Sylvester, Albert Jones, Mary G. Smith and Mayme Holland.

Fashion show supports United Way

A style show will be held Monday night Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Sy Rosenthal gymnasium with proceeds going to the United Way campaign of Hancock County.
Models sporting clothes from the Little Mashroom, and the Corner Boutique will give guests a look at the newest fashions in clothes while California Concept will show the newest look in hair fashions.
A donation of $1.50 will be charged. Free refreshments, entertainment and door prizes will be offered.

Society deadlines

All Society News, weddings, engagements, and club news should be submitted to later than 5 p.m. Tuesday for inclusion in our Thursday edition and no later than 5 p.m. Friday for inclusion in our Sunday edition.
Any item not appearing in the intended edition normally will appear in the next edition.
Forms for writing engagement announcements and weddings are available free at the Echo office.
Only professional black and white photographs are acceptable for wedding or engagement announcements.
Rates will not be accepted for publication which are postmarked or brought into the Echo office later than two weeks after the event.
Engagement announcements should be submitted at least two weeks prior to the preferred announcement date for greatest assurance.

William Carey College plans

Prospective Student Day Nov. 15

The annual Prospective Student Day at William Carey College has been set for Saturday, Nov. 15, according to an announcement today by Tony Pascale, director of admissions.
"Under the direction of the students," commented Pascale, "we hope to have a fun-filled, information-packed day. Of course faculty and staff will be on hand to lead conferences and answer all inquiries."
Special events planned for the day, which begins with registration at 9 a.m., include a performance by William Carey College Chorus and a special theatrical presentation by the speech and drama department. Called

Wildcats score

Pearl River's Rusty Cavataio found the end zone Saturday night early in the second period of play against Gulf Coast at Poplarville, but the Dogs weren't to be denied as they recorded their sixth straight win with a 36-29 effort over Pearl.

Overflow crowd watches Gulf Coast contain Pearl

POPLARVILLE — An overflow crowd of more than 7,000 screaming, ecstatic football fans filled Dobie Holden Stadium here Saturday night to witness one of the most exciting games ever in the long arch-rival history of Pearl River and Gulf Coast meetings.

Pearl River lost the furious battle for first place in the Mississippi Junior College Southern Conference to Gulf Coast 36-29. The Bulldogs entered the contest ranked number two in the nation.

Perkinson trailed 14-6 at half time, but they came back to tally three touchdowns in the third quarter, two of them set up by interceptions to pull it out. Pearl River made an heroic come back in the last eight minutes of the game, but the clock ran out giving the Bulldogs their sixth straight win of the season.

Host Pearl River actually dominated the first half and finished with an edge in the offensive statistics, but the third quarter Wildcat mistakes proved all the visitors needed to earn the victory.

At halftime, PRC held a 14-6 lead. In the third quarter, however, Gulf Coast put 22 points on the board and forced the River to play catchup ball.

"Gulf Coast did a fine job and it's obvious that they are well coached. I hope they win the rest of their games and go on to the national championship," Coach J.C. Arban said.

Saturday night is homecoming for the Wildcats who will take on scrappy Holmes Junior College.

"It's going to be real hard for us to shake off the Gulf Coast loss, but we're facing Holmes next week for homecoming and we'll have to work hard," coach said.

"Holmes is primarily a defensive team. They lost to Perk 7-0 earlier in the season and we'll have our work cut out for us."

The Holmes Bulldog's record stands at a 2-4 mark in the north division, but they have played some really rugged football in its six outings thus far into the season.

"Our main concern will be putting points on the board," Arban continued.

Game time for the Pearl River Homecoming clash is at 8:00 in Dobie Holden Stadium on the Poplarville campus. Pre-game festivities will get underway at 7:30.

The Veterans Administration is a leader among federal agencies in the employment of the handicapped.

Homecoming crowd anxious to see Tiger victory

Mental errors attributed to the Tiger's loss to Long Beach 20-6 last week in Long Beach, according to Tiger mentor Woody Alliston.

"We'll definitely have to put more points on the board than we did against Long Beach if we want to beat them though," Alliston forecasts.

Tiger linebacker Clarence Piazza is a doubtful starter Friday, Alliston said. Piazza has missed practice this week due to illness.

Kickoff time for Friday night's homecoming game is 7:30 p.m. at Tiger Stadium. The Tiger's homecoming queen and court will be presented during halftime ceremonies.

Echo forecasts

Bay, 'Slaus expected to record wins

The loss dropped the Tigers to 2-4 overall and 1-3 in the Gulf Coast Conference, as they prepare to host Pearl River Central this Friday night at Tiger Stadium.

"We definitely need a win bad," Alliston said as the Tigers went back to drills this week. "We are trying to get our defense toughened up and we need some work on our offense," Alliston added.

The Tigers missed one chance to score last Friday against Long Beach when the offensive line jumped offside within the one yard line.

"It's the second time this year that we've done this inside the one," Alliston said pointing out that the Tigers missed both chances to score afterwards.

Although he may feel that the Tiger offense makes mistakes, Alliston still has praise for his quarterback Bill Ginn who has one of the highest completion percentages for passing in the conference.

"Ginn had a pretty good game, but again our receivers dropped a few passes." Looking ahead at PRC, the Tiger coach pointed out running back James Smith. "Smith has got good speed and PRC has a good fullback," Alliston said, adding however that the team was not regarded as strong defensively.

Upsets last week caught the Echo forecasters off guard causing a slightly lower percentage than normal. Still forecasters Loiacano and Barber managed 7 of 11 picks: correct.

Forecaster Loiacano has gone out on a limb this week predicting a perfect 10 out of 10 forecast. Mystery man is somewhat more conservative predicting only nine of the 10 games will actually turn out as he has forecast them. He gives no clue as to which game he has doubts about.

This is the way this week's games look to us.

SPORT TALK

By Charlie Henderson

QUESTION: ...Would you explain the NFL's new rule on an incomplete fourth down pass into the end zone? How does it differ from the old rule?

ANSWER: ...The old rule, passed in 1947, was adopted in the days when passing, not running, ruled the game. It said that if a fourth down pass thrown from inside the 20-yard line was incomplete, the ball came out to the twenty, the same as with a punt that goes into the end zone. The new rule, adopted in 1975, says that the ball simply returns to the line of scrimmage. It is designed to open up the game by encouraging more fourth down passes.

QUESTION: ...Who are the winningest NFL coaches, according to the record book?

ANSWER: ...Most wins belong to George Halas of the Chicago Bears, with 320. Next in line is the late Curly Lambeau, who won 231 over 33 seasons. Paul Brown will probably catch up to Lambeau in a couple of years if he keeps going, since he was getting close to the 200 mark as he entered the 1975 season. Don Shula of Miami and George Allen of the Redskins have a better winning percentage, but longevity is the key here. Halas had the big advantage (like baseball's Connie Mack) that he couldn't be fired. He was the owner.

Lightning Bar Tag wins fourth

Silkwood rides to winner's circle

(Special to The Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La.—Hancock County horses won four races here Sunday at Oak Downs, but lost two exciting matches which produced the best times on the 12-race program.

Lightning Bar Tag, a mare owned by Lesil Dedeaux and trained by Larry Favre, continued to be a constant visitor to the winner's circle by capturing the 350-yard fourth race.

Terry Bounds' Ring Bearer won the 250-yard ninth race, Mike Kirkland's Bam Bars took the three-furlong 10th and Stevie Necaise's Miss Julie was victorious in the 300-yard 12th.

Two of Delbert Cuevas' horses were beaten in good competition. Maid Bailey ran second to J.J. Miller's Red Edition in a 350-yard race which produced the top performance of the day. Red Edition was clocked in Class AA time of 18.40 seconds while Maid Bailey was a close second in 18.51, also AA time.

Another Cuevas-owned horse, Leo Top, was second to Rock On Moon, owned by Richard Faircloth of Mobile, Ala., in a tight 350-yard race. Rock On Moon was timed in 18.79 seconds (Class A) while Leo Top was only inches behind at 18.75 seconds.

Jockeys Charlie Silkwood and Steve Roubion dominated action. Silkwood booted home eight winners while Roubion piloted the remaining four. Oak Downs' leading jockey Ralph Shubert was not on hand for Sunday's program.

Sunday's results:
1) 400 yards, Magnet Bob Jr., 21.94 seconds, Porchia Underwood, owner; Merlin Marechal, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Trigger, second.

2) 5 furlongs, Extra Common, 1:09.25, Ralph Cotton, owner and trainer Steve Roubion, jockey. Doc A.J., 1:09.74.

3) 280 yards, "Pony Race", Shad, 14.94, Bubby Patton, owner and trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Trigger, second.

4) 350 yards, Lightning Bar Tag, 19.54, Lesil Dedeaux, owner; Larry Favre, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Patty's Heart, 20.25.

5) 3 furlongs, Betty's Premier, 37.77, Mike Penton and Terry Stockstill, owners; Bill Harris, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Hanna's Rock, 38.41. Lady Peg, third.

6) 5 furlongs, The Lark's Fare, 1:03.49, John A. Miller and W.R. Skinner, owners; Johnny Lingo, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Rochy's Junior, 1:03.95.

7) 350 yards, Playboy, 19.08, Ray McNease, owner and trainer; Steve Roubion, jockey. Jaws, 19.24. Flying Scotchman, 19.28.

8) 350 yards, Red Edition, 18.48, J.J. Miller, owner and trainer; Steve Roubion, jockey. Maid Bailey, 18.51.

9) 250 yards, Ring Bearer, 14.46, Terry Bounds, owner and trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Doodle Bug, 15.39.

10) 3 furlongs, Bam Bars, 37.72, Mike Kirkland, owner; Merlin Marechal, trainer; Steve Roubion, jockey. Amber Charm, 37.78.

11) 350 yards, Rock On Moon, 18.79, Richard Faircloth, owner; C.E. Summers, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Leo Top, 18.75.

12) 300 yards, Miss Julie, 16.97, Stevie Necaise, owner; Larry Favre, trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Tar Baby, 17.49.

Special matinees planned for Mobile track

As part of the extended holiday weekends there will be a special Columbus Day matinee on Monday, Oct. 13, and again on Veterans' Day, Monday, Oct. 27. Post time, as with the regular weekly matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, is at 1:30 p.m. Additionally there is racing nightly Monday through Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Talk among the railbirds at the Gulf Coast's Action Attraction continues to center around Clem Zwack's amazing 1975 Juvenile Champ, Charlie G.

On September 20th, the Nov. '73 Kostka's King-Zip Chick speedster established the season mark over the 5-16ths mile course with a 31.07 clocking. He came back in his next start to equal the track record of 31.04 set by W.O. Spears Jax in August of 1974. While matching that record, he set another as it was his 20th win, the most ever recorded at the Port City oval. Like a good wine getting better with age, his next start saw him clock a 30.91, the fastest official sprint race ever run by a greyhound at Mobile's popular track. Now holding 23 wins, he undoubtedly will add a goodly number to that to raise the record to new heights. This being his first year of racing, the future holds unlimited possibilities and a good shot at landing a berth on the All-American team.

With the youngster leading the way, the Zwack Kennel has a commanding lead in the race for top kennel honors. In the runner up slot is the Bill Williams Kennel with a comfortable margin over the third contender Jack L. Johnson & son.

At this stage of the 1975 season, the operation of greyhound racing has contributed over three million dollars to the coffers of the 14 participating agencies.

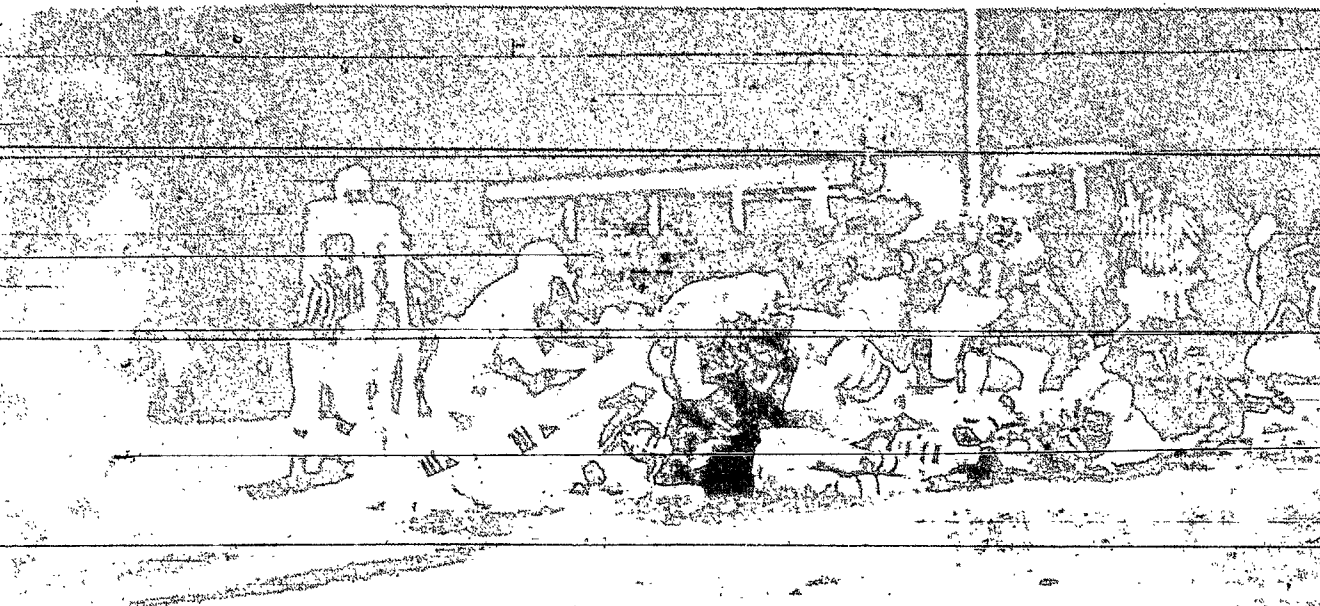

Mobile Greyhound Park is located on I-10 just a little west of Mobile at the Theodore-Dawes exit.

Youthful contender

Kennel Owner Clem Zwack is shown with his super pup, Charlie G., who in recent weeks set the speed record at Mobile Greyhound Park with a 30.91 clocking. Bearer of the 1975 Juvenile Crown among his many laurels, the sleek speedster also has established the mark for most wins in a season with 23.

Our weather has been wonderful lately for fishing. Why wonderful? Because the tides have been falling in the morning and that's the time to go fishing especially for fresh water fish, bass and perch.

Have said before when the tides rise all afternoon stay home when you fish in our local streams.

Pearl River is clear right now and you can catch bass and perch whether you go up or down from Pearlington. Grass and hyacinths are moving out and it is easy to fish near the banks most anywhere.

Believe it or not the coming months, the first part of winter furnishes some excellent fishing. It is true underwater baits are the things to use at this time. However, popping bugs pay off on warm days. A good bait to use is a treble hook with a yellow skirt and a No. 2 1/2 spinner while trolling with the fly rod. Troll about 15 feet behind the boat about 10 or 12 feet from the bank.

Of course, now is the time to troll for speckle trout. Most any ole plug is most effective. A shad rig also gets the speckle beauties, when anchored and casting. You may catch two at a time. Live bait is also effective; either shrimp or small croakers or even small mullet.

Other salt water fish, flounders, red fish and big croakers are caught this way.

This month or next month is the time for spanish mackerel to move in along the Railroad Bridge. The best baits for catching them are shiners, small croakers and mullets. A casting rod or slaughter pole are the best tackle. Don't be surprised if you hook a tarpon, SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK—Andy Anderson is from Marrero, La. but has a trailer in Shoreline Park on Double Bayou. Andy loves all kinds of sports but prefers fishing. He shares his trailer with his friends.

it has happened.

Wonder what has happened to Will and Peterson our fishing and hunting partner.

Long time no see. How are the doves, quail and squirrels? About time to start getting 'em.

Understand they are catching plenty fish down from La France's Camp at Ansley, both fresh and salt water. Ask Arnold Lowe, he knows where.

Met another old time fisherman and hunter, Jep Hogan from Atlanta, Ga. Jep is a brother of Claude and Bill Hogan of Waveland who are both real sportsmen of this area. See more of you, Jep.

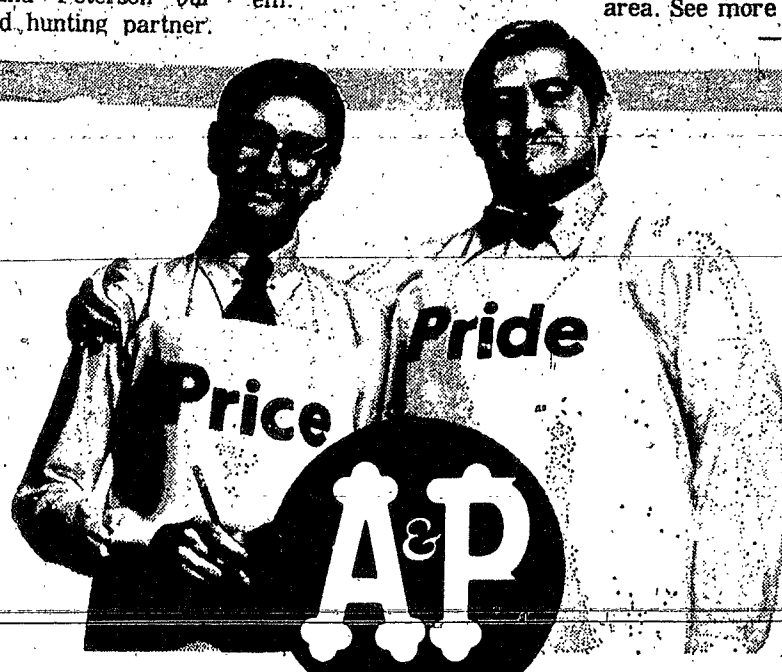

Was a pleasure meeting Terry Boyle, asst. manager of Otasco in the new shopping center in Waveland. Terry does both hunting and fishing. Hunts deer with a bow and arrow. He killed plenty deer in 6 years by this method.

David Garcia likes to kill squirrel and rabbits. Catches fish when they are running. Catches a lot of croakers down Cedar Point way.

Another popular young lady is Liz Seulesinger who is with the Broadwater Marina. Liz said her hobby is swimming. Everyone to their own liking.

Another young fisherman is Mike Ellis an attorney of New Orleans. When not attending to attorney matters you can bet he has a fishing pole in his hand. Nothing any better Mike, in my way of thinking.

Bienville Steel expects to commence operation January

John Housey Jr., president of Bienville Steel, Inc., Port Bienville, Pearlrington, said Tuesday that he expected his company to be in operation by January, 1976.

Housey said Bienville, which is engaged in the fabrication of structural steel for bridge and building components, expects to employ between 40 and 50 ironworkers when fully operational.

according to Housey, because the county industrial park is a "good facility."

General contractor for the job is Bucks, Inc. of Metairie. Steel Erectors are B & B Steel, Inc. of Slidell, La.

medical school, practiced in Rhonoke, Va., and at the Mayo Clinic before coming to Washington in 1950 to head the department of roentgenology at the George Washington University Medical School. He retired in 1955 to devote more time to his lifelong interest in the outdoors.

He served on the Board of Directors of the Wildlife Federation and was recently elected Honorary President of the 3.6 million-member conservation education organization. Under his arrangement with NWF he will continue to live in the historic house while the conservation group develops the property as a nature study center.

NWF officials have already discussed possible uses of the property by the Community College of Northern Virginia, at Sterling, and the Loudon and Fairfax County Schools. The acreage contains a wide variety of wildlife habitats, including open fields, a hardwood forest, conifers, a two-acre pond, and a meandering stream.

NWF Executive Vice President Kimball called Dr. Moore's donation of the farm to the Federation "a generous gift by a great conservationist." "As a conservation organization, we are interested in conserving historic landmarks as well as wildlife habitat," Kimball said. "When we eventually open the place to visitors, Dr. Moore's property will certainly carry the name 'Historic Farm' as well as 'Conservation Education Center.'"

"The vast majority of these people will be local," Housey said.

Declining to list his company's intended "on site" investment, Housey said they were in the initial framing stages of a 640 x 80 foot steel building to be used as their principal fabrication shop. Additionally the company is to construct an on site office building.

Located on a 25-acre site, the company selected location.

Correct addresses are of major concern to the Veterans Administration. Each month the agency mails 7.3 million checks to veterans and their dependents for compensation, pension and education benefits.

The Veterans Administration provided $4.1 billion in education and training assistance to 2.6 million Vietnam-era veterans and servicemen and 79,000 dependents in fiscal year 1975. Prompt notification of changes of address resulted in few delays in delivery of monthly checks.
